Metal Sample Swatches

Samples of metals are always sent, so customers can compare one with others and confirm the right finish for their project before committing to buy.

Sample images of metals, may not always accurately represented the colours and textures So it is always better to have them in hand. After selecting from small samples, larger samples are available if required to further finalise the decision.

If you have not received any requested samples within 7 days, do let us know!

We are always prompt to post samples.

Unfortunately they do not always get delivered in good time, or in some cases at all.
